Risk factors for colorectal cancer in patients with inflammatory bowel disease: a controlled case-control study. The objective was to identify factors related to the risk of colorectal cancer in patients with inflammatory bowel disease (IBD). A case-control study of first episodes of colorectal cancer (CRC) in patients with Crohn's disease or ulcerative colitis was conducted in the province of Quebec between 1988 and 1996. Patients were enrolled by a physician or gastroenterologist from the Quebec provincial registry. A control subject was recruited by the same registry. Data were obtained by mailed questionnaire. Thirty-two matched pairs were studied. A number of risk factors were identified, including chronic diarrhea (odds ratio [OR], 3.20; 95% confidence interval [CI], 1.01-10.13), frequent constipation (OR, 2.44; 95% CI, 1.12-5.32), age older than 40 years (OR, 6.14; 95% CI, 2.49-26.20), cancer in a first-degree relative (OR, 15.49; 95% CI, 2.31-100.17), and extent and duration of disease as defined by Harvey-Bradshaw clinical scores (OR, 13.14; 95% CI, 2.18-74.69). This study confirms that colon
